

It's an unwritten law – groups must shop. Luckily, St. Louis has an array of options to satisfy today's discriminating shopper, including antique shops and specialty boutiques in our historic neighborhoods, and suburban outlet stores and major shopping malls. In addition to the unique offerings available in the gift shops of our museums and cultural institutions, St. Louis is home to artists and artisans who can provide one-of-a-kind and handcrafted items for the ultimate souvenir. Make plans to visit one of the many art fairs and festivals held each year, along with craft shows, collectible auctions, and the mother of all flea markets, the annual Gypsy Caravan.
